Advertising-How to do it-Does it Pay. Professer H. G. Eastman is delivering lectures at the North on the value of advertising, and in one of his lectures he opened by saying that those who had been most generous in their advertising, and thereby the most successful in business, had been stigmatized as "humbugs."

Was Barnum's Museum any the less worthy after he successfully advertised it? Was the Ledger any better before Bonner bought out one day's issue of the New York Herald than it was alterwards? Was Stewart's store any the less werthy of public patronage after paying $22,000 per year for a man to advertise, when the payment of that $22,000 gave $100,-000 in return? There is no such a thing as "humbug." A man is either a knave, charlatan, or else he can be classed among the business men as a man.

The proper way to advertise was to advertise one thing at a time, as for instance-sugar .-People would have their attention arrested by that one word, and they would buy sugar. The result would be that a large business would be established. But if people advertise all they had to sell they would not succeed, because their advertisements would not be read. This was so with everything. If you are a dry goods merchant, silks or some other article must be advertised, and that alone. An excitement must be made, and business would

The merchants in Europe beat us in advertising. They frequently spend $100,000 per year for advertisements. A. T. Stewart advertised his cotton goods alone all over the Union. Mr. Benner once went to Mr. Ben-Union. Mr. Bonner once went to Mr. Bennett, of the New York Herald, and asked if he could have three pages in to-morrow's paper for his advertisement of the Ledger. The answer was, yes, it he would pay a double price he could have all he wanted. Upon which Mr. Bonner said that he would take the whole paper. The consequence was that the Herald the next day, had nothing but Mr. Bonner's advertisement of the Ledger in it. On one page, in large letters, it was stated that an article written by Henry Ward Beecher would be in the Ledger, and so on through the whole eight pages. Mr. Bonner did not advertise all he had to sell, but only attracted attention to the Ledger. People who wish to succeed, must use their brains; they must not depend upon manual labor.
